

2017 ECLIPSES AND ACTIVATIONS

© Malvin Artley 2015

This page is under development and will be updated periodically

There are a total of 22 active eclipses for 2017. The Mars activations take place in the first and last thirds of the year. There are four pairs of eclipses that get activated more or less simultaneously. These are in color coded cells in the table below. Uranus activates one of these pairs twice in 2017. In addition, there is a double activation of this eclipse pair by Mars and Uranus on the median Mars date of 1 Dec. The 20 Mar 15 eclipse that signaled the Paris attacks in Nov 2015 is activated twice by Mars. There are no Saturn activations this year. All activation dates are for Mars unless otherwise indicated. Solar activations are not listed.
